

American Red Cross Restores Roses to Cheeks of Children Who Were Once Doomed to Die

They are not prize-winning children, perhaps, judged by American standards, but their mothers are proud of them and proud of the fact that they are being photographed by an American Red Cross worker in Greece. There is in Macedonia and the children are only a few of the refugees who are housed in the many barracks there and fed by the American Red Cross.

It is doubtful if there would be any youngsters visible were it not that America had come to the rescue and sent to Greece great quantities of American milk. It is the milk that makes the little boys' legs look so chubby and gives the little girls their plump cheeks.

And it isn't in Greece alone, but all through Greece and the islands that the little boys' legs look so chubby and the little girls' cheeks look so plump. There are thousands and thousands of them. During the winter and early spring the American Red Cross was feeding in Greece no less than 500,000 refugees from Anatolia and Eastern Thrace, mostly women and children. Not all of them would have actually starved without this feeding but in a case like this it is better to err on the side of safety. The older members of the family got such solid food as bread and beans, rice and corn grits, but for the babies there was milk—that was the most highly appreciated gift of all.

The refugees, a million of them all told, came to Greece following the burning of Smyrna and the defeat of the Greek armies last fall. Some of them were able to take care of themselves from the start. Some have since managed to reestablish themselves. It is summer in Greece now. There are vegetables in the gardens and grain is ripening in the fields. The crisis of the emergency has passed. The American Red Cross will end its Greek program on June 30 and in withdrawing will carry back to America the gratitude of the entire Greek nation.

PETROGRAD POPULATION BACK AT MILLION MARK

City Suffered Since Removal of Capital to Moscow.

Petrograd.—Petrograd has come back to the million population class. A recent police census showed the city has 1,067,000 inhabitants, as compared with 700,000 in 1920.

Although still almost dead industrially in comparison with its wartime status, Petrograd in general is beginning to "come back."

During the war days Petrograd had more than 2,000,000 people. After the Bolshevik revolution the capital was moved to Moscow and thousands of government employees and factory workmen were evacuated.

The lean and hungry years of the revolution brought about a further decrease in the population, many of the people going to the country districts where food was cheaper and more plentiful.

Two years ago Petrograd merited the predictions of foreign observers that it would be a city as dead as Pompeii. But the last year has brought a tremendous change. Factories are being reopened, the port is in operation, and thousands of persons are returning to the city.

Many of them have come from Moscow, which is an overcrowded city with 2,500,000 people in a city built for 1,000,000, that it is almost impossible to find a place to sleep. In Moscow one cannot get a spacious apartment for love or money; in Petrograd there are many of them. And so hundreds of Moscow business men, whose work keeps them in the capital, have sent their families to Petrograd where they can live comfortably.

While it does not seem probable that there is any immediate chance of the Bolshevik government moving the capital back to Petrograd, nevertheless some institutions which help to overcrowd Moscow are to be moved to Petrograd this summer. This will further increase the population. Business conditions in Petrograd, however, do not seem as bright as they were last summer.

Scores of shops closed during the winter because of high taxation, and the broad Nevsky Prospect presents a panorama of closed and shuttered stores. It is expected that port operations in the summer will bring about an improvement in business.

Saved From Hanging.
A man of the name of John Lee, who lived in Babbacombe, Devonshire, England, was sentenced to death for slaying. Through some bungling on the part of the hangman, three unsuccessful attempts were made to execute the sentence and he was afterward pardoned and released.

SPANISH CHURCH ERECTED IN 661

Building Stands Practically Same as When Finished.

IS WORTHY EXAMPLE OF ART

The old temples, basilicas and baptistries built in Spain at the dawn of Christianity have all disappeared, and one can but construct mental pictures of them from reading the carefully written literary records. A fairly accurate idea of early Christian architecture is gained from these descriptions, but to the ordinary reader they do not carry the same lasting impression that is to be obtained from seeing a thing for one's self and perhaps taking a snapshot of it.

There are still standing in Spain today ruins or reconstructions of temples built there during the Seventh century. The ruins of Segobriga and the chapel of Elche, Santa Comba de Bande and San Miguel de Tarraza, the latter simply a baptistery, are examples of this early architecture, but in each case there is either a question as to the exact date of erection or in its present reconstructed state little is left of the early style and atmosphere.

Rare Specimens of Art.
Francisco Mendizabal, in an article in "A B C" says that the oldest church of which the date of building is certain is the Basilica of San Juan Bautista de Banos de Cerrato, built in 661 by Reccasvinto, an early king of the Visigoths. The peculiar thing about this church which sets it apart from others built a few years earlier, perhaps, and still standing, is the fact that with slight changes it has kept through the ages very nearly the same form in which it came from the hands of the ancient Visigoth workmen. It is said of this church:

"It is the oldest of the Christian temples of Spain, and without a doubt the most important one which has been preserved with regard to architectural worth, structure and integrity. It is not a ruin, a fragment. It is a complete specimen, unequaled in Spain."

This old basilica, situated not far from Palencia, in northern Spain, was dedicated to St. John by the king who had it built. Reccasvinto, during his reign, undertook to crush a rebellion among the Basques, who had revolted against him. Having accomplished this, he returned to his castle at Palencia but exhausted and ill, and caught vent and cold in the quiet beds along the Pisuerga river.

Story of Cure of King.
One day, the story goes, he was walking beside the banks of a clear stream and, coming to a crystal spring, he leaned down to drink. Almost as soon as the water touched his lips he felt that he was being relieved of the disease that he had contracted. He continued to drink, and as he did so he was miraculously cured. He attributed the miracle to St. John, to whose protection he had long ago committed himself, and as an act of gratitude had the temple built not far from the healing spring and dedicated it to St. John.

It is a quaint building, this Basilica de San Juan Bautista, with its columns of colored jasper and Corinthian capitals. The wall of the nave, above the horseshoe arches, is cut by a row of small windows of the same horseshoe shape, and within the church one may see above the central arch the old dedicatory inscription written as many centuries ago.

AIRPLANES SELL FOR $500

British Manufacturers Make Light
Craft for Amateur Flyers.

British manufacturers are now perfecting light models of aircraft that will cost little more than a motorcycle. They are fitted with small engines of four horsepower and have a speed of 50 miles an hour. They leave the ground with a few yards run and land at less than 25 miles an hour. The dangers are less formidable than those of the big flying machines, and any one with a rudimentary knowledge of mechanics can handle the new models.

In an effort further to popularize flying, the British under secretary of state for air has offered a prize of $2,500 for a light airplane competition confined to British machines with a maximum of eight horsepower. The cost of the airplane when completed is not to exceed $500. The competition is to take place in September.

she was not seriously hurt. Mrs. Mary Jenks was struck by a piece of glass and her arm badly cut, and she sustained slight injuries. The best physicians, ladies wraps, and coats were used to smother the flames and a number of garments were ruined, and the life was endangered before much damage was done to the building.

All of those present were impressed by their good fortune in escaping from what might have been a serious accident. Many came to the conclusion that all lamps in this hall are a decided danger.

"SALADA" ICED TEA

Is the Most Popular, Delicious and Refreshing Summer Drink.

This is the season of iced tea when particular housewives are serving it to their families and guests. It is a fact that one of the most popular summer drinks, iced tea, is easy to make, and few homes now are without this product.

To make perfect "Salada" iced tea, could cut a crockery tea pot and while it is warm, put in a level teaspoonful of tea for every cup. Pour on fresh boiled water (but be sure it is boiling) and allow it to steep from five to eight minutes. Then strain to taste, adding half a lemon as a hint. Pour into glass jars or bottles and place on or near the ice, adding a few drops of lemon juice. A thin slice of lemon with each cup or glass may be added if desired.

Be sure to use the best quality tea. The "Salada" iced tea is the only one that is so refreshing and easily digested. adv 61

WILLARD AND FIRPO READY FOR CONTEST

Test Expected to Be One of Greatest Ring Dramas in Years; Excessive Interest for Non-Fight Match

BETTING SHIFTS

Ex-Champion May Enter Ring; Slight Favorite; Known His Advantage in Reach and Height; Firpo in Youth

(By the Associated Press)

New York, July 11.—It and ready for their 12-round battle tomorrow night in the big blue bowl at Bayley's Thirty Acres in Jersey city, Jess Willard, former champion of the world, and Louis Angillet, the pride of the Argentine, will be the principals in what is expected to be one of the greatest ring dramas in years.

Popular interest in the match, the star attraction of a five-bout heavy-weight card, has broken all records for a contest in which no championship is involved. But while no little hinges upon the outcome, the match that Firpo and Willard, two of the most striking personalities the fight game has ever known, will fight for the right to meet Jack Dempsey in a championship struggle, has focused unusual attention on the bout.

Tex Rickard has signed Willard and Firpo to contracts containing the stipulation that the winner fight Dempsey and the promoter expects to come to terms with the champion's manager, Jack Kearns, within a few days.

South Americans Arrive.

From indications tonight, the fight will have a background rivalling in size and color the Dempsey-Carpentier spectacle two years ago in the same arena.

The advance sale of tickets tonight approximated $5,000. It was said, with the receipts close to $350,000. There remained 27,000 reserved seats, ranging in price from $2.50 to $11, together with 30,000 tickets at $1 and $2, which will go on sale late tomorrow afternoon for the general admission sections.

Prominent figures in national, state and municipal public life, together with a throng of society folk and other notables, will arrive in the city tomorrow morning.

Governor Miller of New Jersey, will be among the box holders. Panned and panned luminaries of the ring will include two former heavyweights, title holders, Jack Johnson and Jim Corbett. Delegations of Firpo's supporters from South and Central America, will bring a new element of excitement.

Rickard has perfected plans for handling a record crowd. He will have 500 ushers, 300 policemen in uniform and 200 plain clothesmen in the arena to handle the throng. All available means of transportation, ferries, buses and trolleys, will be augmented, while special trains from large eastern cities, as well as several from the west, will carry fans close to the bowl.

Betting Odds Shift.

Willard may enter the ring a slight favorite, experts conceded tonight, despite the fact that a few weeks ago his opponent was favored by a majority of boxing followers.

In ring power, the fighters are closely matched. Willard's advantages in height, weight and reach offsetting Firpo's youth and aggressiveness. Measurements taken today show the former champion has a margin of 27 pounds on the scales, five inches in reach and nearly five inches in height. Firpo is 14 years younger.

Promoter Tex Rickard announced tonight that in event of rain tomorrow the Firpo-Willard match at Bayley's Thirty Acres will be held Friday night.

Weather predictions tonight contained a possibility of showers, though the general outlook for tomorrow was for dark skies.

South American All Agree.

Buenos Aires, July 11.—In a veritable fever of expectation and patriotic enthusiasm, Argentina is awaiting the outcome of the boxing match between Luis Firpo and Jess Willard at Jersey City tomorrow night.

The bout is almost the sole topic of conversation. The evening papers seldom issue special editions, but they are preparing to publish extras giving the results tomorrow night.

The betting in Buenos Aires is two to one in favor of Firpo. A foreigner is readily accepting the odds. Interest in other South American countries is hardly less keen than in Argentina.

TWO KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO

Driver Thought Stop Would Be Made at Handy Station; Crew Does Not Stop

Plattsburgh, July 11.—Two men were killed, a boy was injured, probably fatally, and a third man escaped injury when an automobile was struck by a north-bound Delaware and Hudson train at Westport's crossing, near Crown Point, early tonight.

The dead are: Jesse H. Brouff, 37, of North, and Wilbur Kearns, 32, of Port Henry.

Alvin Brouff, 13, son of Joseph, is in the Moses Huntington hospital at Port Henry, with a fractured skull. Hospital physicians said he is not expected to live through the night.

Thoughts Train Would Stop.

Devery Weatherman, 40, of Port Henry, who jumped from the automobile as the train approached, also was taken to the hospital but was found to be uninjured.

The men were returning from work at Port Henry, according to Weatherman, and the elder Brouff, who was driving, heard the locomotive whistle, but thought the train would stop at a nearby station. The automobile apparently was thrown in the air and the two bodies carried along by the locomotive, then dropped beside the track. The train did not stop.

Shortly after the train had passed the crossing, Deputy Sheriff Bradford, of Crown Point, driving along the road, saw the wrecked car, found the bodies and took Weatherman and young Brouff to the hospital.

WESTERN BANKS FACE NEW FRAUD

Forged Certified Checks and Cut Telephone Wires Means of Operation

Chicago, July 11.—Eleven banks in outlying sections here have been swindled out of more than $100,000 within the past few days by what police call "a certified check and cut telephone wire" system, according to the Chicago and Cook County Bankers' association.

Three gangs of men, working under the direction of a woman, police said, perpetrated the swindles. Checks purporting to be certified were presented in each case, the police state, and bank tellers were induced to cash them.

The person whose name was signed on the checks, according to the police, was a confederate, and the telephone wire of the supposed signer and the bank was unable to reach him. Frequently, the police said, the checks were paid after tellers were unable to verify the signatures.

ARCHBISHOP PRAISES MILITARY TRAINING

Peekskill, July 11.—Military training was praised by Archbishop Hayes of New York today at the dedication of a Roman Catholic chapel at the state National Guard camp.

Governor Smith, Major General Charles W. Berry, commanding the National Guard, and 2,500 soldiers attended the ceremony. Afterward the archbishop reviewed the troops.

"Religion is essential in the training of armies," the archbishop said. "Military training is desirable in that it teaches the lesson of obedience, not only to army authority but to authority in civil life."

Bishop Manning of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York will dedicate the new Protestant chapel next week.

DOCK STRIKE ENDS

London, July 11.—The unofficial dock strike which has been weakening for the past few days was called off formally in London tonight and resumption of work is expected tomorrow.

The strike began in Hull, July 2, with a walkout of 1,700 men, and later extended to a dozen other ports and involved 40,000 workers. The ports affected included Manchester, Liverpool and Ayrmouth.

DEATH LIST GROWS

Alton, Ill., July 11.—The number of dead in yesterday's explosion at the Western Cartridge company's plant at East Alton, was increased today to 12, and several of the 11 seriously hurt are reported to be in a critical condition tonight.

Of the dead, seven were women and girls and five men.

LASKER TALKS OF DRY SHIPS

Tells Britain U. S. Must Repeal Own, Yacht to Be Acid at Sea to Britain

EXPLAINS MARINE

Says Rinkay Will Be Friendly as American Should Share in Carrying of Own Goods

(By the Associated Press)

London, July 11.—Albert D. Lasker, former chairman of the United States shipping board, put 200 Britons straight tonight on the ways and wherefores of the American merchant marine and the wet and dry ship controversy at a dinner given by the Pilgrims to the various United States governmental officials who voyaged over on the Levathian.

He explained that President Harding felt it inconsistent for America to be dry on land and wet on the sea. That American ships did not serve any liquor was solely because the President had renewed these instructions.

Mr. Lasker offered a ray of hope, however, after expressing regret, which he said most Americans shared, that foreign ships were asked to be arid, when he declared the feeling was that no greater hurt could happen to the American merchant marine than to seek to force foreigners to be dry.

"Somehow," he added, "foreign vessels will, and, as I believe, should be able to serve liquor outside the three-mile limit. What we wish to do with our ships is our business; what you wish to do with your ships is your business, nobody else's. We would be the gainers all around if the coming congress would find a means to expedite legislation to clear up the present muddle."

Relative to the American merchant marine, which some Britons seemed to resent, Mr. Lasker reminded the diners that its building had begun at the instigation of Great Britain as Mr. Lloyd George's first message after the entry of the United States into the war was: "Ships! More ships! Yet more ships!"

The United States has a pretty big water fleet and ought to have some share in the carriage of its own goods, perhaps a little share in other goods. They weren't trying to deprive anybody of the sea, but considered it necessary for the respectability of such a nation to have a merchant marine. In conclusion he said the competition was to be friendly, but there was certain to be competition, as Americans, if not by subsidy, then by other means, were determined to fly their flag on the seas.

ROADS UNIFY TERMINALS IN SOME CITIES, NOT N. Y.

Washington, July 11.—Railroads opposed to unification of terminals in the New York city area are fighting a policy followed everywhere else in the United States and manifestly in the interest of transportation users, according to contentions in a brief filed with the Interstate Commerce commission by the port of New York authority. That organization, created by the joint action of the states of New York and New Jersey, has appealed to the commission for assistance in bringing about the consolidation of the terminals now occupied competitively by trunk lines which serve the port.

At Chicago, Columbus, Cincinnati, Boston, Toledo and Detroit, the port authority, brief declared, the New York Central, though opposing unification at New York, has occupied terminals jointly with other roads, manifest advantages resulting. The brief contended that both the state and federal governments had power to compel railroads to adopt joint use arrangements in terminals and congested track areas.

CONFERENCE TO DISCUSS LABOR PARTY FORMATION

New York, July 11.—The advisability of forming a state labor party to participate in the fall elections will be discussed by representatives of 15 railroad unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor at a conference in Albany on July 23, it was announced today by Thomas E. Ryan, who is arranging the meeting as chairman of the conference for progressive political action.

The conference, it was stated, probably will be turned into a convention at which the Socialist party, the Farmer-Labor and the American Labor parties will be represented. Delegates from large unions in the garment and other trades also will be present.

FILE HUGE PATENT CLAIM

Philadelphia, July 11.—An $18,000,000 claim against the Baldwin Locomotive works for royalties on patent improvements on mobile heavy artillery has been brought in the United States district court here. It was revealed today when counsel for Baldwin asked and obtained an extension of 90 days in which to file an answer.

Similar suits have been filed against corporations in various parts of the country. The government, it was stated, ultimately would have to pay any damages awarded, because it was said to have indemnified manufacturers of war armaments against damages and patent claims.

ARREST PRISON BROTHERS

Springfield, Mass., July 11.—Rioters to the number of 5,000 battled with the police before the telephone building tonight. Two girls picked and two men were arrested, charged with the breach of the peace.

The riot started when police attempted to remove two strikers and thousands of sympathizers who had gathered on an impromptu parade from Court square, where a mass meeting had been in progress, to the telephone building.

SHOOT DAY SUNDAY

Yonkers, N. Y., July 11.—The 12-hour day will end in many departments of the city before the end of the year, James A. Campbell, president of the Yonkers Street and Tube company, declared today at a luncheon given him by the Rotary club.

Mr. Campbell said the complete abolition of the 12-hour day would come "somewhere" than now people think.

FIVE KILLED BY TRAIN

Terre Haute, Ind., July 11.—Five persons were instantly killed and two seriously injured near here last night when a motor car which had stalled on the track of the Big Four railroad was struck by a passenger train.

LIGHTNING KILLS THREE PENNSYLVANIA GUARDIANS

Baltimore, Md., July 11.—Three members of the 14th Regiment, Maryland National guard, in camp at Saunders range, Anne Arundel county, were killed tonight when a bolt of lightning struck in a group of men. Ten soldiers were reported injured.

The men were lounging about the camp at the time, watching a severe thunderstorm that swept over that section of the county.

ONE KILLED WHEN TUBE TRAIN HITS EMPTY COACHES

Seven Injured in Crash; Motorman of Train Says His Brakes Failed to Function; One Car Leaves Rails

Newark, July 11.—One boy was killed and seven persons were injured when a westbound Hudson and Manhattan tube train collided with an eastbound empty train at a switch near the Harrison station today.

When the crash occurred the first car left the rails, but did not turn over. All traffic on the tube line was halted for a half hour. Passengers were taken to New York via the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The cause of the wreck could not be learned, due to the attendant confusion, but it is believed to have been caused by a defective switch. As the eastbound empty train pulled away from the station, the westbound crash it almost head on. Emergency calls were sent to Newark hospitals and ambulances were rushed to the scene of the accident.

Says Brakes Failed to Work.

The train crew and the carmen passengers bent all efforts to extricate the injured and calm the panic-stricken women and children in the rear cars.

William Gross of New York, motorman of the eastbound train, whose back was injured, was removed to the Newark City hospital.

Frank Herbert, motorman of the westbound train, was cut about the face and neck by flying glass. He stayed with his train. Gross declared Herbert was responsible for the wreck. Herbert, the police say, said his brakes failed to work.

TO UPHOLD LIQUOR LAWS

New York, July 11.—Another drive to make New York city dry, was launched tonight when Police Commissioner Enright, following the repeal of the state prohibition enforcement act, issued a four-page manifesto advising members of his department that all liquor laws must be vigorously enforced.

Under the caption "Suppression of Disorderly Places and Traffic in Intoxicating Liquors," the commissioner declared that a perfunctory or modified effort by a policeman was not the measure of his duty. A policeman, according to his superior, has no discretionary powers, and the law must be strictly enforced day and night.

SAID TO HAVE CONFESSED HE SLEW BINGHAMTON WOMAN

Scranton, Pa., July 11.—Arrested on suspicion at Old Forge, near here, Nicholas Serrenti is alleged to have confessed tonight that he killed Jennie Ferrell, at Binghamton, N. Y., last September. The Binghamton police had been searching for him several months. Serrenti is said to have come to Old Forge five months ago and obtained employment in a mine. Chief of Police Bender of Old Forge said that the prisoner declared he killed the Binghamton woman because he was jealous of another man's attention to her.

FRENCH RATIFY NAVAL TREATY

ESSENTIALS ENDED

Deposit of Ratifications by All Signatories in Washington Concluding Act

(By the Associated Press.)

Paris, July 11.—The French parliament completed ratification of the Washington naval limitation treaty and the four power pact accord by overwhelming votes in the senate this evening. The naval limitation treaty was ratified with but three dissenting votes while the Pacific accord was approved immediately after, unanimously and without debate.

Speakers insisted that it must be definitely understood that the treaty did not restrict the building of lighters, craft and submarines on which the French expect to expend most of their naval appropriation.

The report of the senate naval commission was the strongest feature of the opposition. Reporter Lemery, objecting to what he termed the capitulation of France's after-war naval weakness with the control of the seas given to Great Britain, America and Japan.

The senate approval has been accepted as little more than a formality, particularly as the government was able to hurry these principal treaties through the chamber of deputies with little pronounced opposition, but Premier Poincare, seconded by Albert Sarraut, one of the French delegates to Washington, was nevertheless on hand, ready to enter the debate if necessary.

Agreement About Completed.

Washington, July 11.—The French senate's ratification today of the Washington naval treaty and the four power pact completes the steps necessary to put the agreement into force except for the deposit of ratifications by all the signatories in Washington.

Formal notice of ratification to each Washington is not known now it is certain how much time will be required for all of the other powers to send here all the papers necessary for the conference agreement into effect.

Various provisions of the treaty take effect at prescribed periods of time calculated from the date of deposit of ratifications. Vessels of war to be scrapped must be rendered incapable of further warlike service within six months, and the "scrapping" shall finally be effected, within 18 months. The replacement program for capital ships, however, is not dependent upon the date of ratification, but is set forth in a chart fixing the year in which replacement keels may be laid down for such ships.

MAUGHAN NOT TO RESUME COAST TO COAST FLIGHT

Dayton, O., July 11.—Further attempts by Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan to span the continent before daylight and dusk were called off today by chiefs of the air service on the recommendation of McCook field officials.

Because the ideal time to make the flight is around the 21st of June, the longest day in the year, and the time is rapidly getting away from that date, is one reason for calling off further attempts, it was said.

"The other reasons given by McCook officials were because both the engine and the plane have never been given the customary ground tests at McCook field."

NO WINE WITH MEALS IN MANTONA, SAY VOTERS

Winnipeg, July 11.—A bill to make legal the sale of light wines and beers with meals in hotels was crushed by voters of Manitoba today, the same voters who, less than three weeks ago, gave an overwhelming majority in favor of government sale of intoxicating liquors. The vote today was about two to one against the bill sponsored by hoteliers.

It was pointed out, however, that only about half as many persons voted today as in the last referendum, the results indicating that thousands of those who supported the government sale proposal, did not become interested in the hotel sale plan.

CARY, Ill., July 11.—Mrs. Marshall Shoemaker, 34 years old, today shot and killed her four-year-old son, then shot herself, and then turned the gun on herself, dying instantly.

STATE RESTS CASE AGAINST CREIGHTON

Defense Will Attempt to Prove Arsenic in Body Could Not Have Produced Death

Newark, N. J., July 11.—The state late today rested its case in the trial of Mrs. Mary Creighton, charged with the poisoning of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Anne Creighton, more than two years ago.

The defense opened immediately, counsel declaring that they would prove that the elder Mrs. Creighton died either from ptomaine poisoning or "any other of the thousands of natural causes."

The first witness called by the defense was Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, toxicologist. Dr. Gettler admitted on the stand that he found "four small crystals of arsenic" in a portion of the liver of the dead woman.

Questioning by the defense indicated that they would attempt to prove the poison was not the cause of death and that any small quantities of it found in the body was due to impurities in prescriptions furnished by doctors.

It is expected that the defense will finish tomorrow and that the case will be given to the jury late Friday.

MOUSE BRINGS DEATH TO THREE

Startles Man, Who Hits Chauffeur, Causing Machine to Turn Over Into Creek

Marquette, Mich., July 11.—A field mouse caused the death yesterday of three men and the serious injury of two others. The men were drowned when the Marquette county road commission truck in which they were riding rolled down an embankment into a pond near Champion.

Richard Searl, Ole Mattinen and Charles Hyry, who were drowned, were in the rear of the truck, trying to catch the mouse. Suddenly the rodent leaped between them to the shoulder of Herbert Strand on the front seat. Strand was startled and lurched violently against Joseph Scriven, the driver, who lost control of the truck. Herbert and Strand, who were seriously hurt, escaped death by jumping. The others were pinned below the surface of the water by the overturned truck.

TWO MORE COLLIERIES CLOSED BY WALKOUTS

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 11.—Two more collieries were affected by strikes today, bringing the total of miners idle to approximately 4,500 in four collieries in this section.

Because the mine officials feared that the work of certain men had reached the point where overtime was necessary and placed the mine on a straight eight-hour shift, 500 men at the No. 20 colliery of the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal company walked out.

A misunderstanding concerning the exact rate of pay for certain miners of the Woodward colliery caused 250 men to stop work.

EBBETS PLAYS HERO'S ROLE

New York, July 11.—Charles H. Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn club of the National league, played the role of a modest hero today when he rescued Harry Mark of Brooklyn from drowning at Manhattan beach.

Ebbets, who was about to take a plunge, heard Mark's cry for help, swam to his side, brought him to shore, then quickly disappeared. Several bystanders, however, recognized the baseball magnate.

HYLAN WANTS RECKLAYSERS

New York, July 11.—Mayor Hyman today issued a call to all city employees who formerly were brick layers to take up their trowel in the cause of education. In a letter to George J. OPERATORS AND MINERS Discuss Coal Weighing Atlantic City, N. J., July 11.—Anthracite operators and miners who are trying to work out a new agreement to become effective September 1, today discussed the demand for the weighing of coal where it is now paid for by the car and for readjustment of the present tonnage and weight system which the miners demand is changed.

When the sub-committee which is charged with the task of negotiating a new wage contract met, the miners asked whether the operators had any further arguments to make on the question of recognition of the union. It is understood the operators made no reply but suggested that the miners give them a reason of their reasons for all the demands presented.

The union leaders suggested that their views on the demands were pretty well known but that some of them had been inundated since the five-month strike of last year. District President Thomas Kennedy, instructing the grievance committee to discuss and weighing of coal.

It was stated by one of the conferees after the meeting that they had agreed in principle that there should be no subject change but that no conclusion had been reached on what constituted output change.

It was also stated that the operators made it known that if they should reach an agreement with the miners, they would be willing to consider the subject.

Three British Deserters Among Leviathan's Crew

(By the Associated Press.)

Southampton, July 11.—Instead of hundreds of deserters from ships of the British mercantile marine being sent to the crew of the Leviathan, as alleged by English newspapers, a 12-man search today by the police resulted only three men upon whom suspicion could be proved and one of whom is questionable.

Despite the failure of the police to board the Leviathan to serve a 12-man warrant, command officials are voluntdary in their efforts to desert from British ships in the Atlantic. Officers of the Leviathan were more common tonight. The police will attempt to serve warrants.

The penalty for desertion from the British mercantile marine is a fine or imprisonment or both.

Arrival in port meant no rest for the crew of the Leviathan, who were busy all day making her quick and easy for the inspection party tomorrow when leaders in the British shipping world and diplomats and consular officials from London will be the guests of the United States shipping board.

Arrangements have been made to accommodate 10,000 visitors who are expected to inspect the ship Saturday upon payment of a fee of 10 pence apiece. The total receipts, which the American officials anticipate will amount to about 700 pounds, will be devoted to local charity.

CURRENT COMMENT

The army lieutenant who knocked a Boston clergyman through the glass panel of a door, the offense of the said clergyman being that he knew the officer's bride, says he considered the matter ended right there, and wanted it to end there. But with such material for a sensational story offered ready made, why should the officer have expected it to end there?

There is no reason to criticize the statement of District Attorney Pecora of New York city, that Anderson, Anti-Saloon leader, will be allowed to appear before the grand jury if he will sign a waiver of immunity. It is the thing done with any person accused of crime, who asks to go before the grand jury, otherwise many properly accused persons might go free through taking advantage of evidence before the grand jury. If Anderson has asked to appear before the grand jury he should not decline the waiver.

Judge Kilb of Detroit very properly keeps alive his dislike to the foreign-born man who claimed exemption to war service on the ground that they were "conscientious objectors." Monday he refused citizenship to several applicants of that ilk, saying "I cannot see how any applicant who conscientiously objects to carrying arms in protection of the country can take an oath of allegiance in which there are no objections whatever." There are many men nowadays who are asking citizenship or release from prison because they think the United States should forgive and forget. But there are many loyal citizens, including practically all the American Legion, who think our country should do nothing of the sort.

The death of William R. Day, formerly associate justice of the United States supreme court, removed on Monday one of the most accomplished and trustworthy lawyers and logicians in the country. He was on the bench of the highest court for nineteen years, but prior to that he had served the country well as secretary of state and for the last year as umpire of the American-German Claims commission. An associate of state he served his country well in the days of the Spanish-American war; on the bench his services were of great value; as a lawyer, his integrity and ability were beyond question. His death was a great public loss.

Out in Steelville, Ill., matters of vital importance and in other places considered not only urgent but imperative, must yield to the business urge of a thrifty community. "Owing," says the Steelville Ledger, "to a big rush of job painting and for lack of space, a number of births and deaths will be postponed until next week."

Thomas C. Harbaugh of Castleton, Vt., who lately sold his few remaining possessions for money wherewith to finance himself for his remaining years as a paying guest at a county infirmary, bears a name which few may remember, but which forty or fifty years ago was familiar to the ears of thousands of readers of the leading dailies. Down to the last thousand, he saw fit to use it for the purpose named rather than become dependent on the bounty of the community. His books, by the way, were "thrillers" in the modern sense of the term, but they were clean and wholesome, and in these respects stood head and shoulders above books which in the past decade have made their writers both famous and wealthy. Perhaps he was born ahead of his day. At any rate it is probable that if his undeniable talents had had opportunity for exercise in that direction, Harbaugh's name, if not leading all the rest, would have had high place among the writers of scenarios.

L. Foster Moore of Bridgeport, Conn., writing to the New York Tribune, avers that he is tired of the column after column of "note and name" matter which fills the newspapers just before the Fourth. Automobiles, he says, kill more people every day than do the deadly rearing firecrackers, torpedoes and fireworks, and yet there is little said about making "every day safe and sane." Mr. Moore may be correct in his opinion, but he is probably in the wrong in his opinion. He is probably in the wrong in his opinion. He is probably in the wrong in his opinion.

What was a good record which a county jury made the other day in the case of Martin Laubert for shooting a young North Lakeland man to death in a convict lumber camp, on the grounds of neighbors and the community. Florida has a good example. Would that it were more common at Mr. Laubert's home, or at Harris in the notoriously civilized state of Illinois.

America's Marvels
NATURAL AND OTHERWISE

By T. T. Massey

THE GRASSHOPPER GLACIER

Near the ancient town of Cooke City, Mont., northeast of Yellowstone park, there is an immense glacier or ice field. This glacier is composed of thousands of strata. These strata, or layers of ice, are filled with a species of insect, locally referred to as "grasshopper" for want of a better name, and now extinct.

The scientific explanation of this peculiar phenomena is that, so one knows how long ago, this section of the country was visited by a plague of these insects; that while flying over the mountains of the Bear Tooth range, in what is now known as the Bear Tooth National forest, they were caught in snowstorms, carried down to earth and died. The passage of these swarms of insects continued at intervals year after year. Winter after winter, millions upon millions of these insects were caught in the snowstorms and perished.

This glacier is approximately one mile wide and upwards of half a mile long. Because of the fact that it lies in a rock-rimmed, bowl-shaped space on the shoulder of a mountain, at an elevation of about 11,500 feet above sea level, no one can accurately determine just how thick it is. Its depth may be as great as 1,000 feet.

The layers of ice which make up this glacier are alternately light and dark in color. This, it is thought, is accounted for by the fact that each year the snow which fell during the period after the flights had ceased, being pure, containing no insects, fell, froze and formed a "light" strata, whereas the snow which formed the succeeding strata, fell during one of these insect flights, contained countless numbers of their carcasses and formed a "dark" strata.

Certain it is that there is not a similar spectacle in the known world.

DINNER FOR J. J. BYARD

Cooperstown People Honor Popular Attorney Now Moving Offices to Oneonta—Justice Roland L. Davis Present.

James J. Byard, Jr., the well known attorney, who is now moving his law offices from Cooperstown, where he has practiced his profession since 1898, to Oneonta, was signally honored when 150 representative citizens of Cooperstown and vicinity gave him a farewell dinner at the New Fenimore hotel last evening. All the members of the Cooperstown bar were present, as well as business men, other neighbors and friends and a large sized delegation from Richfield Springs.

A sumptuous dinner, to which Mr. Byard sat down at 7:30 o'clock, was followed by speeches by many of "Sunshine" friends. Attorney Orange L. VanHorn was toastmaster. The first speaker was Hon. Roland L. Davis, who spoke of his long friendship for Mr. Byard and of his high respect for the man. Justice A. L. Kellogg of Oneonta was unable to be present, but Mr. VanHorn read a letter from him in which Justice Kellogg told of his esteem for Mr. Byard and of his characteristic of being a good loser as well as a good winner. Rev. Clarence E. Brown of the Cooperstown Baptist church, Dr. D. W. Shaffer of Richfield Springs and Rev. Charles Kramer of the Universalist church spoke of their associations with Mr. Byard and of their regard for him. Hon. C. G. Tennant of Cooperstown gave the last speech, expressing the regret of Cooperstown people that Mr. Byard is to leave the village and presenting him, on behalf of the community, with a fine traveling bag. Mr. Byard responded graciously to the gift and expressing his great regret at leaving the town in which he had spent so many years. Mr. Byard said that the greater educational advantages of Oneonta had impelled him to move here and stated that although he knew that he would leave Oneonta and its residents, he would always regard Cooperstown as his first and greatest love.

A parody on the popular song, "We Have No Bananas Today" was sung with great gusto by the guests. This song, a clever piece of work, named Cooperstown's lawyers and intimated that the profession in the village would not be quite the same in the future as, "Yes, We Have No Jim Byard Today."

CATTLE JUDGING COMPLETED

Twenty-four Boys and a Girl Enter Last Week's Contest.

Twenty-four boys and one girl took advantage of the cattle judging meetings for the Otsego County Club members held during the past week. These twenty-five out of sixty-eight eligible in the county are now hard at work getting ready for the county judging contests to be held the last week in July.

During the meetings it was impressed upon the boys that there are four essentials in the cow: dairy temperament, food capacity, constitution and good milking organs. It was explained to them how to select the cow which showed these most plainly and then practice was given in judging rings of cows. The boys who attended the meetings showed excellent judgment and gave promise of making good cattlemen later in life.

Professor Randall of Cornell University aided in the demonstrations as did the county cattle breeders whose farms were visited by Mr. Wilson and Mr. Hunsford, agricultural teachers at Worcester and Edinboro.

TWENTY AND THIRTY YEARS AGO

Days of Old Oneonta by Henry Vandyne

July 12, 1903.

Miss Mary Bates of the Oneonta Normal school faculty has resigned her position.

Vincenzo Martucci, Joseph Martucci and Antonio Vecuso of Oneonta have been admitted to citizenship.

E. F. Foster of Binghamton has leased the house of 1 N. Smith on Elm street and will move to Oneonta about September 1.

July 12, 1903.

The Crumhorn Mountain house has bookings enough for the entire season. Fred Schwaninger of the Mechanic's House company secured the prize at Sidney on the Fourth for being the best looking first assistant in line.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen has chosen the following officers: Master, Frank Yokoy; vice master, Walter Stron; past master, D. B. Howard; secretary, William Emory; receiver, James Walters; collector, J. N. Stone; chaplain, W. H. Dewey; conductor, A. J. Bookhout; warden, A. A. Dempwolf; inner guard, C. Parshall; outer guard, James Crouch.

MAY REMOVE HOOK MOUNTAIN

Haverstraw, July 11.—Plans for the removal of Hook mountain, rising nearly 200 feet above the Hudson river here, in an effort to beautify the Palisades Interstate park, were revealed Tuesday during the inspection of the park by Governor Smith and Governor Sizer of New Jersey. The mountain was the scene of quarry operations years ago and great scars were torn in the green sides of the Palisades. Both governors expressed themselves as enthusiastic over the project.

The value of the rock in the mountain, established at $5,000,000, would pay the cost of removal, it was said.

THE GUIDE POST—
BY HENRY VANDYKE

MUSIC THE CONSOLER

And in the night his song shall be with me.—Psalm 123.

How often has it brought peace and help, and strength to weary and downcast pilgrims!

It penetrates the bosom and unlocks the doors of secret, self-consuming anguish, so that the sorrow flowing out may leave the soul unburdened and released.

It teaches the chords of memory, and brings back the happy scenes of the past.

In the rude mining camp, cut off by the snows of winter, in the narrow cabin of the ship deck-bound in Arctic seas, in the bare, dark rooms of the war-prison where the captive soldiers are trying to beguile the heavy time by company, tears melt down the rough cheeks when some one strikes the familiar note of "Home, Sweet Home."

Music lends a strange sweetness to the remembrance of the past, and makes the troubles of the present heavier, yet somehow easier to bear.

It borrows the comfort of hope. It draws the threads of sorrow one by one, and catches the beams of light reflected from the future, and weaves them in among its harmonies, blending, brightening, softening the mystic web, until we are enclosed in a glow not born in a garment of material, and the cold, tired heart finds itself warmed, and rested, and filled with courage.

Most gracious minister of melody, happy are they who know how to exercise it in simplicity and love; happy they whose life pictures are cheered and lightened by such service.

60 DAYS ADDED TO SENTENCE

Oswining, July 11. — Dr. Arthur Stanger, formerly a New York physician, serving a term in Sing Sing prison for forgery, had 60 days added to his sentence Tuesday by Warden Lewis E. Lawes as the result of the recent discovery that he had obtained money from a number of convicts by promising them that he would obtain early paroles for them. He was assigned to the pick and shovel gang.

LOCAL MENTION

The Sunday school picnic of the First Presbyterian church will take place Sunday at Wilbur park and last night, as was incidentally announced in The Star of yesterday.

William Kim, secretary of the Utica Rotary club, will address the Oneonta Rotarians at the luncheon this afternoon at the Elks' club home. Mr. Kim was to have been the speaker last week but was unavoidably absent.

Still further preparations were made yesterday, that the Friday, the thirteenth, bargain day, which is to be celebrated in Oneonta on Friday, might be the most successful trade day ever held in Oneonta. The inducements to be offered by the merchants will be found listed in other columns of The Star.

The Star has made arrangements to furnish Associated Press bulletins during the progress of the fight this evening at Jewett City between Willard and Firpo. Round by round accounts of the fight will be bulletined and will be read from a window of this office if a crowd of sufficient size gathers. The main bout starts at 10 p. m. In case of rain it will be postponed until Friday evening.

Miss Ethel Cooley, Nathan Pendleton and Mrs. Edith Burd of the Citizens' National bank are all on two weeks' vacations. THREE NEW GAS LINES

Recently Put in Service in City—Increased Pressure, Reduced New Gasometer Unit at Cellars.

Three new gas lines have recently been put in service by the New York State Gas & Electric company, one under Neahwa park connecting with the River street main, a second under Walnut street, and a third under Center between Elm and Maple streets.

The largest and longest main is the one under the park, connecting the gas plant with the River street main at the corner of Main street. It is an eight inch pipe and will tend to increase the pressure throughout the entire city. The pipe itself has been laid for some time, but it is only within the last few days that it was joined to the existing lines.

Though smaller and shorter, the other two new lines will assist in raising the pressure of the gas in all of the city mains. The one under Walnut street is a four inch pipe running from Dietz to Elm streets, connecting the mains of these streets with each other and with the Ford avenue main. Maple street is made part of the system by a new four inch pipe joining it with Elm under Center street.

These three lines in conjunction with other smaller additions about the city will appreciably increase the gas pressure for all districts. An improvement which all homeowners will note with pleasure. Tests made lately by the company show a better pressure than has been obtainable for some years.

In addition to this new gas main construction, the company has recently installed a fourth hydraulic generator unit of 400 K. W. capacity at the Cellars power plant. This unit, added to the two 1,000 K. W. and one 500 K. W. dynamos that were erected when the plant was built gives the station a total capacity of 2,900 K. W. This added power will greatly increase the efficiency of the plant. At present, however, the dynamos at this plant are only running for a few hours each day, as the water is very low in the dam. While these generators are inactive, the load is carried by the steam units of the company.

SUSTAINS SCALP WOUNDS

Philip Buckley of Chestnut Street Injured in Auto Accident Near Gilbertsville.

Philip Buckley of 216 Chestnut street, this city, sustained severe scalp wounds when the car in which he was riding with Elmer Conrow of Chestnut street and two young ladies, struck a pile of bones on the state highway near Gilbertsville at about midnight Tuesday, throwing him against the top of the machine. He was brought to the Fox Memorial hospital, where he was resting comfortably last evening.

Buckley and Conrow had started with the young ladies for Gilbertsville to a dance. They ran low of gasoline and started back to Oneonta. They were proceeding along the piece of road under construction between Morris and Gilbertville when the car, a Ford coupe, struck a pile of stones by the side of the road. The impact threw Buckley against the top of the car, cutting his head severely. Neither Conrow nor the girls were injured. The machine was not badly damaged and Conrow drove the injured man to the hospital where Dr. E. J. Parish attended him.

Rumors about the city yesterday that the accident resulted from careless driving and that a man was in jail were utterly unfounded. Sheriff Williams and state troopers investigated the case and found that the mishap was purely an accident and that there was nothing out of the way in the conduct of any of the persons concerned.

Well, Well, Well, Says Avery Good-morning.

Did you folks see what The City Drug Store is going to do tomorrow, Friday, the 13th? Who says that that is an unlucky day? Giving away to every one that spends a dollar or more in their store, thirteen cents, and this in addition to their regular low cut prices. Some proposition, I'd say. You people sure ought to take advantage of this offer. And especially you folks from out of town, now that you don't have to check your car any more at the city line; drive right down the main stem to The City Drug Store, and park for twenty-nine minutes, go in and see how many times you can save thirteen cents. This is a darn good store to trade in at any time. They have the lowest prices I've found in Oneonta. With the extra saving to be made tomorrow, I'll bet their store will be crowded. Hop to it, folks! P. S.: I stopped in their store yesterday for a smoke, and heard the boss say that there is room for four or five cars back of the store, that us rural folks are welcome to use. advt 1t

NON-RESIDENT PUPILS

City Board Increases Rates of Tuition for Non-Resident Pupils and High School Pupils.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Education, the matter of tuition for non-resident grade students, and for high school students who come from a district which maintains a high school or who are otherwise disqualified from receiving free tuition from the state, was fully discussed. It was pointed out that the tuition rates as heretofore scheduled were of many years' standing, and were entirely insufficient to compensate to any extent for the service rendered. Conservative estimates placed the cost of instruction in this city at the present time at ninety dollars per pupil. While this is not excessive in comparison with costs in other cities, it is of course greatly in advance of corresponding costs ten years ago.

In consequence of this situation, the Board of Education has established the following rates, which take effect August 1, 1923: Grades 2, 3, 4 and 5, $20 per annum; grades 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, $40 per annum; high school, $50 per annum. Proportional rates are of course made to parents whose children are in attendance for shorter periods. Tuition is payable in advance.

It is understood that the high school students holding a Regents' preliminary certificate or equivalent, coming to the local high school from a district which does not maintain a high school are admitted free of charge by reason of the State Law, which provides a compensation to the city of $50 per annum for the instruction of such pupils.

D. & H. Girls at Goodyear Lake.

The Misses Margaret Dunsmore, Kathie Voth, Mabel Williams, Edna Quinn, Helen Smith, Genevieve Shine and Mrs. J. A. Sills from the divisional accountant's office of the Delaware & Hudson company and Misses Mary Ostrom and Josephine Merriman from the division engineer's office and Miss Evelyn Grosant from the superintendent's office are spending two weeks at Camp Oneonta on Goodyear lake, commuting back and forth to their duties during the week.

Supper at Elm Park Church.

The anniversary of the Elm Park church celebrated last night was a very successful affair. The address of the evening, a very forceful array of truth, was ably presented by Rev. E. Austin, of Sherburne, under whose leadership the society was organized seven years ago and the church dedicated five years ago. A most excellent supper was served by the ladies to a large number of people. Music was furnished by the church orchestra.

Normal Faculty Has Outing.

Motoring to Three-Mile Point on Otsego lake last evening for a picnic supper, the summer faculty of the Normal school had a most pleasant outing. Since there were enough cars among the faculty to transport them all, the journey was made with great ease and comfort. It was reported that the amount of food consumed was out of all proportion to the number present.

BASBALL BARGAIN DAY

Tannerville, Wm. Oppen Outcomes Giants in Doubleheader at Oneonta Park This Afternoon.

With the season's first double-header, for the admission price, as the attraction, Neahwa ball park will doubtless be thronged with fans when the Oneonta and Tannerville nines cross bats this afternoon in the second and third games of the second series between the two clubs. The first game will be called at 2:30 o'clock, and the second will probably start about 4:15 o'clock.

Bridwell's Giants took the jump on Tannerville at the Catskill village yesterday in the series opener and today's visitors will cross the mountains with the determination of wrestling both or at least one of this afternoon's contests from the local swarms. The summer seasoners were not exactly pleased with the result of the first series, which Oneonta won by taking five of the eight games, and Dolan's players derive more pleasure from trimming Oneonta than from sitting down to a square meal.

Friday, the thirteenth, may mean something in the lives of Oneonta and Walton ball players, as tomorrow's match at Neahwa park between the two teams will determine, and again it may not. In a sport in which the lucky seventh inning counts for much, it is not unlikely that more than one ball-player will have his fingers crossed when he goes on the diamond tomorrow, and finding the player whose jinx is hoodooed by the unluckiest day on the calendar should provide fans with no little amusement.

"Jinks" Presented at Entertainment This Afternoon and Evening.

An unusually amusing picture is to be shown at the Palace on this (Thursday) by arrangement with the State Department of Health and everyone should see it. A picture intended to teach a health lesson is not generally supposed to be funny, but "Jinks" is an exception and always keeps the audience laughing from start to finish, although it deals with the tragically serious subject of tuberculosis and teaches an important health lesson.

The film tells, by animated cartoons wonderfully well done, the story of Jinks, who has long neglected his health and as a result gets into serious difficulties. He has most amusing adventures, partly in actual experience and partly in a dream. He wakes up, convinced of the error of his ways, mends his habits and is restored to health.

The teaching of the film is correct in every detail and most valuable and the delightful humor of the picture and the high quality of the work always pleases the audience. Bring the children to see it. Adults, too, will enjoy it and benefit by it quite as much.

Plains W. C. T. U. Picnic.

ELDERED-KILKENNY NUPTIALS

Highly Flavored Young Couple Married Yesterday at Home of Mrs. J. Kilkenny, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Kilkenny.

Clifford John Eldred, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cletian G. Eldred of Laurens, and Miss Emily B. Kilkenny, daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Dennis J. Kilkenny of this city, were united in marriage at noon yesterday at the home of the bride's parents, 410 Chestnut street. Rev. Wilbur C. Dodge of the Elm Park Methodist Episcopal church performed the ceremony in the presence of the families and a few intimate friends.

The bride was decorated in lavender and pink and the ceremony took place before a bank of ferns. Miss Florence Eldred, sister of the groom, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaid was Miss Helen Ferguson. Wedding gifts at Margaretville, a golden fraternal brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride was attired in white with a veil of white tulle caught with a wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of roses. Her traveling dress was of tan crepe with hat to match. The bride's attendants wore gowns of ecru crepe de chine and carried bouquets of lavender and pink. The bride's gift to the groom was a gold watch chain. The bride gave her attendants gold vanity cases.

Following the ceremony a lovely wedding breakfast was served with Mrs. A. Kilkenny as waitress and Mr. G. Kilkenny as waiter. The wedding trip of about a week through the Adirondack states, upon their return they will reside, for a time, at the Kilkenny residence.

Among those from out of town in attendance at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Eldred and Miss Gertrude Eldred of Laurens and Mr. and Mrs. George Fisher.

FORMER ALDERMAN OF CITY

Martin J. Platt, 63 years old, died at his home at 121 Chestnut street, Oneonta, N. Y., July 11.

Martin J. Platt, a native of the town of Maryland and for many years a resident of this city, died at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning, July 11, at his home, 121 Chestnut street. He had been confined to his bed for the past seven weeks. The immediate cause of death was heart failure, doubtless due to the increasing infirmities of age.

The funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow (Friday) afternoon at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Louis M. Baker, 61 West avenue. Rev. Dr. Edwin J. Farley, pastor of the First Baptist church, will officiate and interment will be in the family plot in the McKenna cemetery at Oneonta. He was 63 years old, having been born June 21, 1858, in the town of Maryland, his parents being Andrew H. and Hannah (Cook) Platt. His grandfather was Stephen Platt and his great-grandfather, Daniel Platt was a native of Connecticut, coming in the winter of 1800 with teams and sleds from Columbia county, where he had previously resided for some time, to Maryland township, where he settled in that portion of the town which to this time is known as Platt Hollow. The early life of Martin J. Platt was spent in that township. He operated a sawmill for a time at Maryland and afterwards purchased a farm on the Crumhorne, where he resided for ten years. Twenty nine years ago he moved to Oneonta, which had ever since been his home, conducting a market and afterwards a dairy products store in this city and elsewhere for several years.

Mr. Platt was in politics a Democrat, and zealous for the party of his faith. He was a trustee of the old village of Oneonta for the last two years of its corporate existence, and for the first three years of the city government was alderman from the fifth ward. He was a man of strong convictions and warm personal attachments. He was devoted to his home and had many friends who had noted with regret his declining health, and who will sympathize with the family in its bereavement. In his early life he was a member of the Lutheran church at Maryland. The surviving members of his family are one son, Newton A. Platt and a daughter, Mrs. Louis M. Baker, both of Oneonta; and three grandchildren, Miss Frances Platt and Beatrice and Raymond Baker, all of this city. He leaves also two sisters, Mrs. Viola D. Newton of Oneonta and Mrs. Charles J. Armstrong of Milford. His wife, who was Catherine E. Ray of Maryland, to whom he was married in 1879, died July 2, 1921.

MYRON BARNES FOUND DEAD.

When his body was found it was without clothing and lay face down upon the rocks. There were indications that the last moments of the deceased had been painful. His clothing was discovered nearby, where he had left it when preparing to enter the stream. Dr. L. C. Warren was called and the body was removed at once to the Howard undertaking parlors. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

The deceased was a resident of Franklin. He has a brother, George Barnes, residing in Oneonta.

NO EGGS-AGERATION.

Thirty Grains Weight of Miniature Hen Fruit From Elk Creek.

It is a not uncommon occurrence for patrons of The Star to bring to this office eggs of unusual size, weighing perhaps a quarter of a pound, measuring eight or more inches around and with two and sometimes three yolks inside the heavy shell. Just by way of contrast and to show that all unusual eggs are not just unusually large, W. T. Mills, who resides on the Clark farm between Elk Creek and Westville, sent a perfectly formed, miniature specimen of hen fruit to this office yesterday.

The egg, which is not larger than that of a small bird, tipped the finest apothecary scales at thirty grains—no more. It would take almost fifteen of these eggs to weigh an ounce, avoirdupois, 222 of them to weigh a pound, 550 of them to make the equivalent in weight of a dozen ordinary eggs. In size the miniature hen fruit is two inches around the shorter way, two and one-quarter inches longer. Viewed by strong light, it shows a yolk or central nucleus, being apparently composed entirely of white of egg.

The taxpayers electors of the village of Cooperstown will have opportunity on July 18 to vote on a proposition to raise by tax the sum of $1,275, to be used for the purpose of purchasing Doubleday field, which nationwide is known as the spot on which the first game of baseball was played. A similar vote was passed at the last charter election, but the legal advisors of the board have ruled that as the resolution failed to state the definite purpose for which the money was raised, the election was not properly held. Accordingly they will vote again, and without doubt the resolution will carry as heretofore.

So many tourists passing through Cooperstown have expressed the desire to have Doubleday field pointed out to them that the village Chamber of Commerce has decided to erect signs, naming the field, directing visitors to the original diamond and briefly stating that it is the birthplace of baseball.

5-YEAR-OLD GIRL
MASCOT OF SHIP

Sea Captain's Daughter Has Crossed Pacific Twice and Is Master of Geography.

San Francisco, Cal.—Suppose you were a little girl five years old, and you lived in a small apartment, nicely furnished though a little crowded, with your mother and father, and suppose that when you walked out of the front door you found yourself on the long, narrow deck of a ship, with clouds and clouds of white canvas overhead, and nothing as far as the eye could reach, but the sea.

Suppose that instead of learning to play tag and hop scotch you learned how to box the compass and knew every line and rope and stay and sail and piece of rigging on a ship; that instead of entertaining yourself with doll house and playing grown-up and going to kindergarten you were amused by being taught the difference between a sky's and a top's, a spanker and a jib, a brigantine and a bark.

Suppose you were a little sailor lass, daughter of a ship captain and granddaughter of a master and owner of ships, born within sight of the sea, and never out of sight of it and most of your life upon it.

If you were all these things you would be exactly like Margaret Sterling, mascot, favorite, tyrant, pet and plaything of the ship E. R. Sterling, the largest six-masted barkentine in the world.

Father Is Captain.

Margaret's father is Capt. R. M. Sterling, master of the big barkentine, who is, in turn, son of Capt. E. P. Sterling, manufacturing owner of the vessel and one of the unusual and picturesque men of the sea.

Margaret has been twice across the Pacific, and into and out of most of the ports of the South seas. She knows more about geography than the average college graduate. In short, Margaret is a daughter of the sea.

The whole family is a remarkable and interesting one. Captain Sterling might have stepped right out of one of Peter R. Kynd's "Cappy Ricks" stories, for every minute of his life is full of the sort of action and business of which Kynd writes so interestingly.

His son, Capt. Ray Sterling, would have come from one of Joseph Conrad's tales. He might have been the young master in the story called "Youth." He is quiet, reserved, solidly built, clear-eyed, capable, thoughtful and a master seaman.

His wife, Margaret's mother, might have come out of a novel by Kathleen Norris or by William McFie. She is too pretty for any possible ship master's wife; she is a gracious hostess, a pleasant, well read, cultured quiet voiced little Australian girl, full of fun and jokes, an ideal mother and an unusual wife. Her romance with the silent, sure, strong young Captain Sterling is a story by itself. She was one of the belles of Australia before her marriage, and it is safe to assume that the captain's luck left more than one young landlady in the Antipodes fester and bereft.

Life Full of Thrills.

There have been enough adventures packed into the lives of these people aboard the E. R. Sterling to make several books. They think little of them. Margaret, the baby, is as blasé as an old salt.

"I'm getting perfectly tired of this life," she said, with a yawn. "I prefer to stay ashore and I'm going to make daddy give up the ship and come with us to live in a house soon."

She talks like a woman of twenty at times. But who wouldn't, if she had only old sailors and mother and father to learn with and from, and only saw other little people once in a blue moon, when the big barkentine is tied up at some pier or in some dock discharging or taking on cargo.

Margaret says she is going to make the captain stay ashore soon so that she can go to school and have a back yard, and a sand pile and play with little girls of her age as much as she likes.

Native Game Birds in Danger.

Our native species of quail, pheasant and wild turkey are fast coming to a point where, if not protected by stringent laws they will become extinct. It is true that imported birds can be brought in from time to time, but it is also true that there is nothing quite so sweet to the ear of the seasoned gamester as the plaintive "bob-white" call of the quail of Pennsylvania or the one and only "whir" of the native pheasant as it takes wing.

Shakes for Better Chickens.

Crowing tournaments for roosters have been popular diversions in the village of Brackel, Belgium, for many generations. Poultry breeders say that the contests develop better chickens.

Making Life Smooth.

Young Wife (to her husband)—"But, you see, my darling, it is really to your interest. The more money you give me voluntarily, the less I'll ask you for."—Paris Saint-Gene.

Reflection on Great Cities.

If you suppress the exuberant love of pleasure and money, the curiosity, the pleasure purpose, and watch with what a stillness would there be in the greatest cities.—Bryce.

Seeing the Bright Side.

"Something ought to be done about everything," says the prize grower of the cactus. Sure! But aside from that things are pretty flat.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Straight and Narrow Path Best.

Let us men turn aside ever so slightly from the broad path of humor at the plausible pretext that he is tempted by the goodness of the earth.—Charles Whipple.

TRANSJORDANIA, NEW ARAB STATE

Amman, Its Capital, Once Philadelphia, Ancestor of All Modern Philadelphias.

Washington.—Whether the newest Arab state to have its independence recognized be called by its Western title of Transjordan or by its Eastern name, Karak, it seems hopelessly out of touch with things American. A bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society, in regard to the land immediately east of the River Jordan over which Emir Abdullah ruled. "Perhaps it will bring the newly independent but very old country closer," continues the bulletin, "to realize that its capital, now Amman, was once Philadelphia—the great-great-grandfather of the hundred or more Philadelphia, great and small, that are to be found in our postal guides. Ancestor of Modern Philadelphia.

"But it was only a mere matter of twenty-odd centuries ago that the city took the name of Philadelphia from its new lord, Ptolemy Philadelphos. It had existed as Irbath Amman, chief city of the Ammonites, almost from the days of Lot, from whom the Ammonites are said to have sprung. It was after a victorious battle with these same people of Amman that Jephthah, according to the Biblical story, returned to the fatal meeting with his daughter.

"When Transjordan is described as stretching from the Jordan and the Dead Sea toward the interior of Arabia, one is likely to call up the picture of a hopeless desert. But much of the region is steppe land, a high plain supporting some flocks and even capable of tillage. Nomadism has long held the region in its grip, however, and it is as a sort of 'chief of nomads' that 'dullah Ibn Hussein finds it necessary to rule. He holds his 'court' not in a palace but in a group of tents which he moves with the seasons. Center of Culture.

"This land, now given over largely to nomads, is capable of development along stable lines, as is shown by its past importance. After Alexander's Eastern conquests the cities to the east of the Jordan became Hellenized and the seats of prosperity and culture. In the Second century before Christ, Ptolemy Philadelphos built in the city which was given his name as extensive acropolis which, in the Amman of today, is only a mass of fallen columns and ruined walls.

"Rome's sway over Philadelphia is shown in Amman by the ruins of a huge amphitheater which seated 5,000 spectators. In the sleepy Eastern town of today poets browse among the foundations of temples and public buildings, Arabian coffee shops lean against once-proud walls, and the Eastern people of the village lounge on overturned marble pillars. Emir Abdullah is showing some interest in the ancient structures of his capital, however, and is having the fairly well-preserved amphitheater cleared of debris. "Amman is not inaccessible. Five hours by automobile over reasonably good roads through the sizzling valley of the Jordan suffice for the trip from Jerusalem to the capital. The Jordan forms the boundary line, and across it is an iron bridge. Amman is only about thirty miles from the river and, as the river flows, is hardly more than sixty miles from Jerusalem. The Hedjaz railway, connecting Damascus and Medina, runs through the town."

Improved Hand Truck.
To dispense with the services of a helper, a hand truck, described in Popular Mechanics Magazine, has been so designed that it enables one man to handle large packages. Situated above the truck and its two small wheels is a platform so arranged that one end of it can be raised or lowered by double levers and links. On the platform is a sliding frame with its end turned at right angles so that, when lowered, it can be pushed under a package, and when that end is raised and the other end is lowered onto the truck, it is ready for moving.

Various Uses of Honey.
Honey can be used safely in diseases where other sweets are interdicted. In diabetes honey and saccharine replace other sweets. In the various diseases in which cod liver oil is prescribed, honey and cream, or honey and butter, can be used as a substitute.

Length of "Immortal" Span of Life Measured

Paris.—The recent death, at the age of ninety-five, of Dr. Frey, the French surgeon and famous pioneer, has raised the question, "How long do the 'immortal' live?" Dr. Frey was a member of the French Academy for thirty-three years.

The record for long life goes to the nephew of Carnelle, Bertrand Fontaine, scientist, philosopher, poet and dramatist. He was born in 1857 and died in 1957, lacking but one month of living a full hundred years. He was a member of the French Academy for thirty-six years, elected at the age of thirty-four, after being refused four times previously.

The honors for holding membership in the French Academy longer than anyone else go to Marshal Ribbion, grandpère of the famous cardinal. He was elected in 1770, at the age of twenty-four, and died in 1788, at the age of ninety-two, thus being an immortal for sixty-eight years.

Faithful Lover Carries Girl to Wedding Altar

San Francisco.—A broken back did not deter pretty nineteen-year-old Jean Strang from eloping.

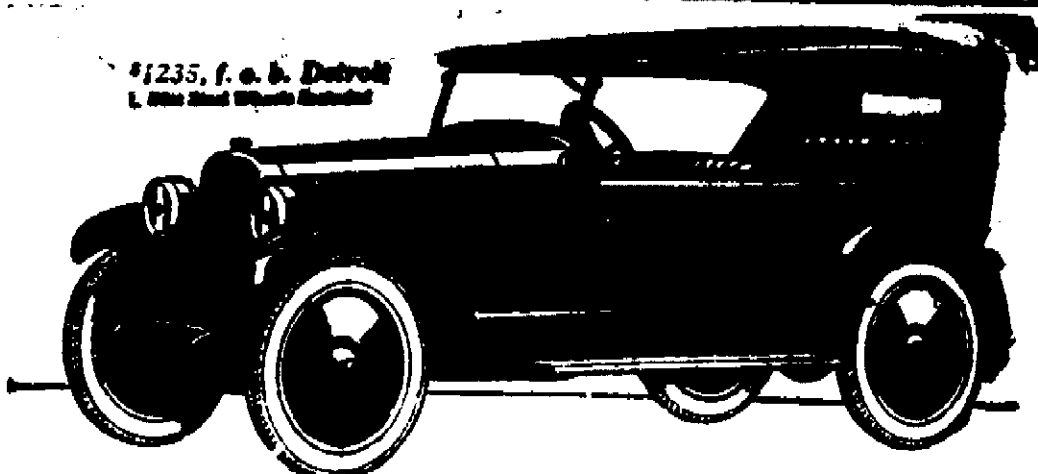

Confined to a hospital for more than a year, Miss Strang was permitted to go for an automobile ride. Her faithful sweetheart, George C. Franklin, also nineteen, who since the automobile accident in which she was injured, has haunted her bedside, carried her to his machine. Two hours later they had not returned and Mrs. Rebecca Strang, becoming worried, asked the police to find them. The police failed, but the next day Mrs. Strang was notified that her daughter and Franklin had been married at Redwood City.

The bride, her back encased in a wooden brace, was carried to the altar by the bridegroom and a chum.

Safety First.
Mrs. Knagg—Lots of better men than you have hinted that they'd have been glad to marry me if I hadn't taken you.

Her Husband—I notice they never even hinted it till after I married you.

Avoiding the Trap.
"You're known her since she was a little girl, haven't you?"
"Yes."
"How old would you say she is?"
"My dear, I can't tell you exactly, but I'm sure she can't be a day over twenty-two."

Faithful Collie Saves Baby Girls From Death

Cape Charles, Va.—A collie dog saved a child from drowning here.

Attracted by the unusual barking and howling of the collie dog of Clifton Leatherbury that ran upon the porch of the Leatherbury home in a most excited manner, Mrs. Leatherbury followed the dog to the creek about 100 yards away, where she found her two-year-old daughter in the stream beyond her depth. Only one hand was above water.

Mrs. Leatherbury plunged into the water up to her waist and rescued the little girl who was in an unconscious condition, but with the assistance of the family and a doctor who was immediately called, the infant soon recovered.

John and Priscilla's Last Home Is Empty

Dunbury, Mass.—The old home of John Alden at Plymouth is empty. It is said this is the first time since its erection in 1633 that the house has not sheltered some of the Alden family.

The house is not the "new habitation" to which Alden took Priscilla Mullens after their wedding in 1623, at which Capt. Miles Standish so gallantly accepted his defeat as a lover.

After Alden moved across the bay still within sight of the homes of his comrades of 1620, he built a house on a site a few hundred yards south of the present dwelling, and about thirty years after his marriage he erected the one now standing, probably in order to have more room for his large family.

Nevertheless, Longfellow's description of the first house Alden built for his bride fits the present one in some particulars:

Solid, substantial, of timber rough-hewn from the firs of the forest. Wooden-barred was the door, and the roof was covered with rushes; Latticed the windows were, and the window panes were of paper. Oiled to admit the light, while wind and rain were excluded. There, too, he dug a well, and around it planted an orchard; Still may be seen to this day some Ever of her he thought when he fashioned the walls of his dwelling."

The last Alden has gone. Only a sign "antiques for sale," is left swinging to the wind.

LONG DISUSED, BUT NOT DEAD

Many Parts of the Human Frame Remain, Though They Are No Longer Called Upon.

Every person is a walking museum, a living volume of the history of the world.

Stand before a mirror and raise the top lid of one eye. At its corner you will see a little fold of skin, which cannot possibly serve any useful purpose. It did once, though, for it is all that is left of a semi-transparent third eyelid, such as birds and reptiles possess, which could be lowered as a protector when our remote ancestors were passing through dense undergrowth.

And whilst you are at the mirror look at your ears. Just over the entrance of each is a little pointed flap, which can be made to close the ear if it is pressed backward with the finger. This was once a regular ear-shield, useful as a protector in sand or dust storms, or when its owner took to the water.

A few people can still move their ears. Each of us possesses the muscles whose duty it was two thousand years ago to turn them in the direction of sounds, or to wag them when flies were troublesome. Though shrunk to tiny remnants through long disuse, these muscles remain.

Lake of Fire Ever Active.

The great spectacle of Halemauana, popularly known as the "Lake of Everlasting Fire," in Hawaii National park, is again to be seen. In May, 1921, the boiling lava rose slowly until within 40 feet of the rim of the crater. Then earthquakes opened subterranean vents and the surface subsided at the rate of a foot an hour until the whole lake disappeared, leaving a rumbling smoking chasm 1,000 feet deep and nearly 2,000 feet across. During this sinking the walls of the pit, lacking the support of the living lava, began to collapse. During the subsidence the old craters of Mokuapihi and Napau became active, but did not continue long. They are now dried out again.

No Spouts.

Eight-year-old Frances has been taught by her parents the art of keeping a secret and it irritates her to be suspected of telling anything she is asked not to tell. The other day she was visiting Aunt Grace, who also had a young lady visitor. Aunt Grace had warned Frances not to tell the conversation, so she began to talk of things which were secrets when the visitor looked at Frances and said: "Little pitchers sometimes have big ears, my dear."

Frances looked back at her. "Yes," she agreed tacitly, "but that doesn't hurt if they don't have any spouts."

The Bride's Bacon.

"Here's a good one," said the man, as he opened his desk. "Just heard a young bride telling a friend that her first breakfast in her new home was a failure because she had not too much lard in the bacon." "That's not so bad," said the business woman. "Friend of mine once told me that the doctor's order that she eat more breakfast meant that she would either have to get up earlier in the morning or fry the bacon the night before, as she understood it took a long time to cook pork."—Detroit News.

ARMY TANKS MOW DOWN TREES

Uncle Sam's Mechanical Elephants Stage Show for Staff College Students.

Washington.—Uncle Sam's herd of mechanical elephants recently showed off at the army tank school, Camp Meade, Md., in a demonstration put on for the benefit of some seventy officers and instructors from the staff school at the army war college.

Half a dozen of the huge, lumbering "Mark VIII" giant tanks developed during the war, but too late to share in the fighting, and a whole flock of the six-ton French type which did get into action participated in the show.

The demonstration is one of the series of educational exhibits for the staff college students, all of whom are experienced officers whose military instruction is being rounded out to insure an adequate supply of general officers and men with general staff qualifications.

Tear Down Trees.

To introduce the student officers to the possibilities of modern tank warfare, Col. S. D. Rockenbach, commandant of the tank corps and school, sent two of his huge 40-ton "Mark VIII" monsters skirmishing through the heavy woods on either side of a narrow roadway. When the signal to advance was given, the land battleships surged forward resistlessly, tearing great swaths as they passed, as though twin, narrow wedge cyclones had cut parallel paths of wreckage through the woodland. Towering trees went down before them like reeds, the tanks grinding them remorselessly under the steel-shod runners. At times each tank was knocking over half a dozen trees at the same time, literally rooting them from the earth and lumbering forward over prostrate trunks a foot or more in diameter. The sheer power of the geared liberty engines overcome every obstacle of ditch or bank or brush or tree stump, and not an inch to right or left from the selected course were the monsters forced to swerve.

Later a miniature tank attack was delivered over the rough, sandy field that is the playground of the school herd. Three "Mark VIII's" led the drive, their six-pounder guns roaring and machine guns snarling as they crept forward behind a smoke barrage hurled from their guns. They looked like crawling dragons, breathing smoke and flame as they shouldered their way over ditches and sand dunes to disappear over a ridge beyond in clouds of dust and spouts of flying debris flung up from land mines that gave a realistic battle picture.

Little Fellows in Wake.

Behind the big fellows came a far-flung line of the little six-tonners, snorting with machine gun and one-pounder fire. A dozen or more of the two-man tanks made up this line.

Colonel Rockenbach explained to the visiting officers that what they had seen thus far were tanks developed during the war. He recalled that in the first requisition from General Pershing for tank equipment, the call had come for the elements which would make up a land fleet, the fighting tanks with auxiliary equipment of cross-country, rough-going machines to bring up the artillery and supplies. Since the war, he added, some progress toward filling that requisition had been made.

At a signal the new type, the 15-ton "medium tank" of the future, charged out into the rough field. It fairly raced over humps and hummocks at a 12-mile gait, twisting and turning like a motorboat. Behind it came a "seventy-five" gun riding a similar mechanism and plunging about the field at high speed regardless of holes or ditches. It traveled with equal speed in either direction. Behind these two came the cross-country truck for ammunition, gasoline, oil and supplies. These three, Colonel Rockenbach said, were the beginnings of the American land fleet that would play a great role in any future war. None of them was perfected as yet, he added, but within them were the elements of a new day in battle when machines would take more of the burden from the fighting men.

Dog-Eating Ceases as Igorotes Try Out Beef

Manila.—The dog market of Baguio has disappeared entirely and the eating of dogs by the Igorotes, a non-Christian tribe, has been reduced to a minimum, according to Col. Henry Knauber, head of the constabulary academy at Baguio.

"Introduction of the meat of cattle and hogs has turned the Igorotes, who formerly ate dogs, into eaters of meats recognized by the civilized world as edible," said Col. Knauber. "These people had to have some kind of meat and years ago the only animal they knew was the dog."

"When civilization introduced cattle and domestic hogs to these mountain people, they quit eating dogs. Only a few scattering cases of dog eating have been reported for some time, and these were among the people living far back in the hills."

MAF'S LIGHTNING BOMBS THUNDER

Broke at 2,000,000 Volts Flash in Remarkable Experiment in Laboratory.

Pittsfield, Mass.—From man-made clouds over a miniature village artificial lightning of 2,000,000 volts was produced in the high-voltage engineering laboratory of the General Electric company's plant here. This feat was said to surpass any previous accomplishment in high voltage.

Lightning flashed from the make-believe clouds, striking the village church steeple, the country store, and occasionally both at once. The sound of the thunder was realistic. In some tests even rain was produced. Heavy blocks of wood were splintered. A realistic and breath-taking electrical storm was manufactured before the eyes of a score of newspaper men and engineers.

The Pittsfield laboratory, said to be the most powerful in the world, has been in the development of power transmission since the construction of the first 15,000-volt lines was supervised here in 1891.

Use 100 Miles of Wire.

Transformers of a standard design, built here, were used "to step up" a current of about 2,000 volts one thousand times. In the million-volt transformer more than 100 miles of wire was used. This was wound in such a way that enormous voltages were produced, experts said, without the turn of a wheel.

The laboratory in which the tests were conducted is a large brick building lined with steel. In these tests it is determined, according to the experimenters, that a tubular transmission cable 6 1/4 inches in diameter would be of sufficient size to retain this enormous current.

Travels Like Light.

Despite the fact that lightning travels at the velocity of light, 186,000 miles per second, engineers at the Pittsfield plant have been able to measure the shape of the flash and determine its pressure. It was to reach a better understanding of these problems that the miniature village and artificial lightning were designed. F. W. Peck, Jr., in charge of the high-voltage research, issued a statement explaining the purpose of the demonstration.

"A million volts may never be necessary for power transmission," he said, "but if the time comes we will be prepared."

Pigeon Visits Church Each Sunday Morning

Springfield, O.—A pigeon which attends church here every Sunday is reported by Rev. C. E. Byers, pastor of the church, who asserts that the bird has scarcely missed a Sunday service during the last three years.

The pigeon arrives about the time the first hymn is sung, coming in through an open window, alights on the pulpit, sits in the desk while the sermon is being preached and at times on the Bible itself, looking up into the face of the preacher. At times it will jump to the shoulder of the pastor or even attempt to perch on his hand. It makes no difference who the minister is, as the bird's actions are generally the same.

The only absent period was when the bird was injured by an automobile. Since its recovery, Mr. Byers said, the pigeon attends the Sunday services regularly.

The bird is now accepted as a member of the congregation and attracts little attention when it arrives.

Lonesome for Jailed

Pal, Insists on Arrest

New York.—So fond are Gerry Smith, Garrison, and Ward Dunn of each other's company, it was disclosed when they were arraigned in court, that when Smith was locked up in Poughkeepsie, Dunn voluntarily went to the police station and insisted that he be arrested too. He was accommodated and the two defendants held a social celebration party in jail.

Smith is employed on a big contract to improve the New York Central railroad near Garrison. He went to Poughkeepsie and was arrested as disorderly.

Later, Dunn became so lonesome he went to the police station and asked to be housed there along with his "buddy." So he was held on a charge of safe-breaking and given an adjoining cell to that occupied by Smith.

Mrs. Elliott married John Elliott, a British subject, in Rome 25 years ago. She is living with her husband here.

Marked for Death By Bootleggers

The rum runners had offered an enforcement agent A BRIBE OF $300,000 A WEEK if he would shut his eyes while they flooded five States with forbidden liquor. The agent pretended to fall in with the scheme; he accepted some of the bribe money and turned it in to the United States Treasury; he learned all the secrets of the rum runners and then set a trap in which all the plotters were caught.

Weeks later, long after the agent had left the brewery city, a friend approached him.

"I'm sorry, old man," the friend said, "But that gang is after you." The agent whistled.

"Yes," said the friend, "they've put you on the Red List."

The Red List contains the names of those whom the bootleggers have marked for death.

One of the startling stories of the war on the rum runners.

You don't need to bother with bar soap any more

The hardest part of washday—rubbing, rubbing with bar soap. Extra rubbing on the neck and back. Heavy rubbing of the wet clothes on the washboard. What a cruel drudgery it is.

Today you don't have to go through all that back-breaking, hours-long labor. A new kind of soap is freeing women from washday drudgery.

With this new soap—Rinso—there's no need of the place of hard rubbing. Just soak the clothes, loosen the dirt and a thorough wringing leaves things white and shining as you could get them before.

Only spots where the dirt is actually ground-in such as neckbands, cuff edges, and so on, will need a light rubbing with a bit of dry Rinso. Then these obstinate spots disappear.

You don't have to change any of your washday habits with Rinso. Just use it the way you used to use bar soap—for soaking, for boiling, or in washing machines.

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux, the largest soapmakers in the world. Get Rinso today. It comes in two sizes—the regular size and the big new package. At all grocers and department stores. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

On Sea Queen's Maiden Voyage

Many incidents called on the first European trip of the Leviathan as a passenger vessel when she left New York July 4. Among them were Edward Chandler Christy, the painter, and Mrs. Christy. They witnessed the unveiling of President Harding's portrait, painted by Christy, on the boat.

Slain Girl Is Buried on Day She Was to Wed

Clemens, Ohio.—Cora V. Fry, pretty nineteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Zena Fry, a widow residing a mile north of Verdigras, was found dead in a water trough at her mother's home.

Her throat was slashed from ear to ear and her left wrist also showed slight gashes, but physicians state that death was due to drowning.

Miss Fry was to have been married at 9 o'clock that morning to Buddy Hale, a son of a merchant of Verdigras. Near the house was found a butcher knife from the kitchen and a faint trail of blood led from the house to the trough. The young woman had been in the heat of spirits and had gone to bed with her mother. The household kept and knew nothing of the tragedy until the body was found.

In the same room in which she was to have been married the girl's funeral was held. The preacher who was to have pronounced the wedding ceremony delivered the funeral sermon and her husband was her shroud.

Broken Ankle Is Only Result of Long Fall

New York.—Joe Viola, five years old, fell five stories from the roof of his home at 228 East Ninety-seventh street with no more serious results than a fractured ankle. The child lost his balance while playing on the roof. He struck four sets of clotheslines while falling, bounding from one to the next, and landed on his feet.

SOUGHT TO PRESERVE SOUL

Ancient Egyptians Had Firm Belief That Another Life Followed the Mortal Career.

When a person of importance died in ancient Egypt the embalming process was soon started. An incision was made with a stone knife—for more reason, metal knives were never used—and the viscera were drawn out. The brain, too, was removed. The organs were preserved in jars, which were inclosed in a box and put into the tomb with the mummy.

Strong embalming fluids were poured into the body, which was then steeped in natron and left for 70 days. After this it was washed and bound with strips of the finest flax, strong gum being used to secure the wrapping.

The mummy was first placed in a wooden coffin. The later was deposited in another coffin, which in turn was enclosed in a third, shaped in the form of a human being.

The idea was that the soul was free to wander through the abodes of the dead for a period of about 10,000 years, after which it was supposed to return and look for its earthly body. Transmigration was imagined to have taken place if the body decayed or was disturbed.

The elaborate precautions taken to preserve the dead in those far-off days arose from humble beginnings dating back thousands of years, when the dead were dried in the sun and placed in a vault containing a few flint instruments and a pot or two of food for sustenance of the departed's soul on its journey.

Ancestors of the Necktie.

The necktie came into use as something with which to warm the neck in cold weather. The ruff was the forerunner of the bit of color that is knotted at a man's throat today.

After the ruff came neckcloths of Brussels lace, which were at one time worn so long that the ends were tucked in the waistcoat. Later a broad silk ribbon was worn and the grandfather of the cake eater wore a cravat which passed twice around the collar. The modern scarf made its appearance about forty years ago.

Softening Photograph Tones.

Undesirable high tones, or "whites," an annoyance commonly experienced by photograph users, may be eliminated by the use of interference tubes. They consist of U-shaped metal appliances, designed to be incorporated in a main tube that is fitted between the reproducer and tone-arm of a talking machine. According to the inventor, the arrangement of bypaths for the sound waves causes certain of these to be considerably softened with but little loss in volume.

Silver Map.

A silver map of the world, exhibited at the Royal Geographical society, England, is said to be the best of four such maps in existence. It is a thin circular plate of silver about three inches in diameter and commemorates Drake's voyage around the world.

Walking Stick Donated Rank.

At one time the general use of walking sticks was forbidden in Rome by imperial edict, except to persons of patrician rank, thus making it a privilege which came to be popular among the nobility and eventually a distinction.

PARENSIS CURED BY NEW DRUG

Good Results in Tests on Advanced Insane Cases.

REACHES THE BRAIN TISSUES

Few recent discoveries in the science of medicine have aroused as much general interest as has the treatment for paresis by means of the drug trypanamide, just announced in the Journal of the American Medical Association. Paresis, as almost every one knows, is the progressive paralysis of the insane, softening of the brain, neurosyphilis.

Trypanamide—the sodium salt of N-Phenylglycinamide-P-aminic acid, a white, crystalline solid quite soluble in water, which, by the way, is not yet offered for sale—was first made by Dr. Walter A. Jacobs and Dr. Michael Heidelberger in 1915. Dr. Wade Hampton Brown of the Rockefeller Institute, and Dr. Louise Pearce, the first of her sex to be appointed to Dr. Simon Flexner's staff, became interested in the drug and began the study of its application.

Cure Revealed in Africa.
Doctor Pearce went into the Belgian Congo to treat sleeping sickness with the new drug. Four months she spent in that dreadful country and she was rewarded by being the first to show that diseases characterized by the degeneration of brain tissue, such as paresis, could be checked by its application.

Meanwhile, beginning in 1910, four physicians on the University of Wisconsin faculty—Dr. W. F. Lorenz, Dr. A. S. Loevenhart, Dr. W. J. Blackwelder and Dr. F. J. Hodges—entered upon a study of the treatment of syphilis of the central nervous system with a view to the use and development of new drugs. Doctor Brown drew their attention to trypanamide, with which he and Doctor Pearce and other physicians had made tests on animals and a comparatively small group of patients suffering from syphilis other than that of the central nervous system.

From the work already done, it was known that single doses of the drug as large as five grains could be administered with safety. It was also found that old or indolent lesions of syphilis disappeared promptly under treatment with trypanamide, that patients showed a marked improvement in physical condition, and that a positive Wassermann blood reaction (proof of the existence of the disease) could be reduced to negative. Early lesions, on the other hand, responded less favorably.

It Reached Brain Tissues.

There was abundant evidence that the drug possessed an affinity for the tissues of the central nervous system and it appeared that, with proper regulation of dosage, the difficulties of penetration hitherto experienced with arsenicals and other drugs might be overcome and that the affinity of the drug for these tissues might be utilized for medicinal purposes. This was successfully accomplished in rabbits with trypanosomiasis, in which there is a distribution of organisms and lesions in the central nervous system comparable to those of cerebral syphilis in man.

Approximately 5 per cent of persons suffering from syphilis later develop paresis. Therefore many cases must be arrested at some time in the course of the diseases and paresis spontaneously prevented. It seems reasonable in such a case, says the Journal of the American Medical Association, from which the facts regarding the experiments of the Wisconsin physicians are gleaned, to assume that a defensive mechanism of some kind protects the nervous tissues, a reaction which either makes the cells more resistant or the toxins less destructive.

The Wisconsin physicians made tests upon 61 insane patients and 30 non-committed ambulatory cases, ranging from generalized syphilis to early and late paresis. Under paresis they included any case of syphilis of the central nervous system that had a certain physical symptom-complex accompanied by definite mental symptoms of sufficient severity to warrant the conclusion that a psychosis existed, whether it was merely a general dilapidation shown in lessened interest and capability or an emotional instability, or a marked delirium or maniacal delirium.

Complete Observations Made.
There were 42 such cases of long-standing paresis. Next came 12 cases of fairly early paresis, easily recognizable as insane by laymen, mostly ex-service men, all suffering from mental disorders, some bordering on a euphoric condition. A symptomatic paresis claimed 14 cases giving all the laboratory findings of paresis but free from mental symptoms, often persons seeking a physician or a hospital because of a nervous breakdown. The few others were cases of frank tabes dorsalis, taboparesis, meningovascular or generalized syphilis.

The work began with a study of the action of trypanamide in late paresis, where obviously little improvement was to be expected, for the full measure of brain damage was already done. Therefore it was clear that the sole criteria of improvement would be laboratory findings.

Before and during treatment, which is described in detail in the Journal, tests of May 23, very complete clinical observations were made, including general physical and mental examination, blood counts, body weights, and so on. As a consequence it was possible to estimate with fair accuracy the changes that took place.

At the outset trypanamide was given in doses of five grains at intervals of one week over a period of from five to six weeks. It was evident that trypanamide alone had marked bene-cial effects, both on the clinical and on the serologic picture. Later, while the former seemed stable, the latter were found to be subject to relapse. Mercury was added, and stable improvements were noted on both pictures.

Frequent tests showed that the best dosage known at this time consists of three grains of trypanamide in ten cubic centimeters of distilled water, injected intravenously, given at intervals of one week for a period of eight weeks. At the same time, mercuric salicylate is administered intramuscularly in one grain doses. After a rest period of five to eight weeks the course is repeated. A third may follow.

Good Results Reported.

The physicians report that of the 42 advanced, parietic patients treated, 21 have been discharged from the hospitals and are working. In the 12 early cases, relatively acute, results have been pronounced—seven have fully recovered their normal mentality and have been discharged and are earning their living and the remaining five are mentally in a condition to earn their livings but have not yet been discharged because of serologic findings.

Of the total fifty-four cases of paresis studied, twenty-eight patients have been holding positions and earning a livelihood for themselves and their families for periods ranging from six months to two years. That, says the doctors, answers what they name the "so-called remission" attributed to paresis, in their opinion erroneously.

Of the ten cases of meningovascular syphilis treated, the blood Wassermann reaction became negative in eight and mildly positive in the other two. In nearly every case treated with mercury as well as trypanamide the blood Wassermann test was promptly in the direction of negativity.

Finally, the doctors report that the majority of their patients made a decided gain in weight and that the general state of their health was considerably improved. The patients on the average showed a gain of twenty pounds.

One warning is sounded in connection with the use of this remarkable drug. Trypanamide has been found to possess the potentiality of injuring the optic tract and its use should be immediately halted when a patient reports even the slightest disturbance in vision.
